Birthday of Serra To Be Celebrated at Mission

Today is the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Padre Junipero Serra, and fitting ceremonies are being held at four o'clock in the Mission by Father Michael D. O'Connell. Especial importance is attached to the occasion, and school children will journey to the scene to be taken through the buildings and be shown the books and other belongings of California's most famous early churchman.

It was in Petra, on the island of Majorca, that Serra was born to farming folk, and these parents early gave him his religious training. At the age of fifteen he turned to the priesthood and attended the University of Lullian, in the nearby city of Palma.

His prayers for active field work were answered, and at the age of thirty-six he left Petra and headed for the new world. Palou estimates that Father Serra covered fully two thousand miles a year in covering the settlements in his charge. When, at the age of fifty-six, he joined the second division of Gaspar de Portola's columns moving northward, his greatest work was yet to be done, and from then on his name was identified with the chain of missions that stretched a day's walk apart up through the state.

The Monterey Mission was founded by him in 1770, and the one in Carmel, known as San Carlos Borromeo del Rio Carmelo was founded the next year. Serra's death occurred here on August 28, 1784, and the following day he was buried by Father Palou.

In recent years a bronze sarcophagus in a building adjoining the mission has been created by Jo Mora, a sculptor eminently qualified through training and research for the work, and there his remains are today.

The services this afternoon will be a solemn benediction by Father O'Connell, the present pastor, and will be followed by a talk by Father Gay, of the mission in Monterey.

The Senator from Wisconsin Tells of Governmental Needs

By WINSOR JOSSELYN

The brown-suited young man from Wisconsin, enjoying his first visit to Carmel, was perfectly willing to discuss the state of the nation, just as a hundred and twenty million more of us are. But he was willing to go further—he was willing to try and do something about it, and, being a Senator's son, a governor's brother, and himself a United States Senator with eight years to his credit, it is quite possible that he can do just this.

"Administrative bottle-necks in Washington are slowing up the recovery program," said thirty-eight year old United States Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., in a sunny corner of the Pine Inn last Saturday afternoon.

"I believe that there must be decentralization of the administration of the many agencies created to stimulate recovery and afford relief to the people. If they can find administrators to bring to Washington, surely they can find administrators living outside of Washington to take over regional responsibility, and I don't see why such a plan can't be worked out.

"And furthermore, I believe that the public works program should not have been cut from six billions to less than three and a half billions, but rather that swifter distribution of an even greater sum should have been made possible."

For the past month he has been swinging through the northwest and west on a speaking tour, and he was asked what reaction he found to the NRA program.

"Disappointment at the slow headway," he replied. "After all, it comes down to individuals and how they are affected, and unless they get tangible proof that something is underway for their personal betterment, they doubt the whole movement." His steady eyes left the inquirer, and he turned to light a cigarette.

"Just after the new administration got its program under way there was a psychological upturn

Noted Artists Contribute To Success of Gallery

The Carmel Art Association behind the move, and it is confidently expected that every artist hereabouts will appear on the roster when the doors are officially opened.

Etta Maxwell Heath, treasurer of the Association, says that the membership will range from Associate, at two dollars annually, to Sustaining at ten dollars. Contributing at twenty-five dollars, Life at one hundred dollars and Patron at five hundred dollars.

Many interesting ideas will be worked out for securing public contributions, and the interest in art on the Peninsula has never been stronger than it is today with this Gallery to focus attention on the notable artists among us.

Improvements are under way on the studio, and when need for greater space arrives there will be no lack of room to expand on the property that has been secured with the building.

The Big Grid Game May Break Carmel Asunder

Annual civil war has broken out and all because some doubt exists in Carmel over the Stanford-California Big Game at Palo Alto tomorrow. Families are at knife and fork points, neighborhoods are throwing rocks through windows, game begins.

"Why, before the game begins I can tell you the score is nought-nought—before the game begins."

Hal Bragg and Don Staniford, those stalwart Californians, are challenging such Stanfordites as Willard Whitney and Elmer Cox to show winning plays in the main street, traffic or no traffic, and pointing to record books to show how foolish it is to believe that Stanford has a chance.

"What about that USC game?" is the retort, and the air becomes thick with more than words.

Saturday the town will be deserted until nightfall, and then look out for the post mortem fights in every worthwhile, man's meeting place in this artistic village of ours.

LOCAL DISHWASHER GETS LONG TERM IN PRISON

George Lundy, a local dishwasher who is alleged to have pilfered a diamond ring in Carmel which he sold in separate parts, diamond and ring, to shops here, was sentenced to five years at San Quentin by Judge Jorgensen for burglarious entry of residences at Salinas last week. Lundy was caught red-handed, pleaded guilty and was promptly sent to the penitentiary.

A number of thefts that have taken place in Carmel this summer and fall are laid at Lundy's door.

SHERIFF WARNS PEOPLE AGAINST KIDNAPPERS

Because of the Brook Hart kidnapping and murder, Sheriff Carl H. Abbott has issued the following warning:

TO THE CITIZENS OF MONTEREY COUNTY: Because of the recent killing of a San Jose youth after being kidnapped, all citizens with considerable money in this county are urged to take extraordinary precautions in safeguarding their children and other loved ones.

This cannot be stressed too strongly, for although there have been no kidnappings similar to the one that occurred in San Jose, there are many people in the county who might be the targets for a crime similar to the Brooke Hart case.

No experienced kidnap gang was responsible for the Hart kidnapping, but it was engineered by a couple of inexperienced men. Any person or similar group around here might think of the same idea. (Signed) Carl H. Abbott, Sheriff.

MURPHY ZONING CASE IS POSTPONED TILL NOV. 28th

The case of the People vs. M. J. Murphy, Inc., on alleged violation of the Carmel zoning law, has been continued until November 28th at 11 o'clock, when arguments will be heard on demurrer.

that was very gratifying, and then was the time to pump substance beneath it and build a foundation for further upward progress. The downward spiral seemed definitely to have been checked, but the unnecessary and unreasonable delay in solidifying that foundation endangered the advantage gained." His moderate voice was rising, but where was the thunder of cartoonist Gluyas Williams' senator who tips the beam at two hundred and fifty in frock coat and congress gaiters? Instead, here was a brisk young business man, his black hair parted carefully in the middle and pin-striped with gray, who was giving his straight-forward opinions on the difficulties besetting a government.

"Russian recognition? Its benefits to us will depend a great deal on the amount of credit we extend in order that she may buy our commodities. Soviet propaganda in the United States? I have too much confidence in our institutions to believe they can be undermined by speeches or pamphlets."

He believed that our export markets in the future lie in the Orient, Russia and in the Central and South American countries, because the war forced Europe to adopt mass production and cut down the need for American goods, and the attitude of America toward Cuba, he added, might determine the attitude of the Latin-American countries.

"As to the government's gold purchasing program, it is predicated on increasing the price of commodities by increasing the price of gold, and whether or not this is going to prove beneficial is still a matter of conjecture." Then he nodded decisively, and said, "This depression is due to lack of purchasing power on the part of our people, and there's the whole problem boiled down into a few words."

When asked how he happened upon Carmel, he nodded toward his pipe-smoking companion, and said, "Mr. Wurlitzer is a San Franciscan, and he wanted me to see this region before I went on east again."

Which, to a Carmelite, was an entirely sensible answer.

RED CROSS TO HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION

The annual meeting of the Carmel Chapter of the Red Cross will be held in the old auditorium of Sunset School on Monday, December 4, at 3:00 p. m.

All members and others interested in the work of the Red Cross are urged to attend. Directors for the ensuing year will be elected at this meeting.

William G. White, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Willis G. White of Carmel, has been promoted recently to corporal in the Marine corps. White is serving in the Naval Ammunition Depot at Bremerton, Wash., and his captain, William T. Clement, writes in high approval of the young man's capabilities and military record.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP DRIVE BRINGS POST UP TO QUOTA

Success came to the American Legion membership drive before it passed its halfway mark on Armistice Day, and in Carmel this result was due in a large measure to the individual go-out-and-get-'em methods of Jimmy Regan and Floyd Mangrum.

With the membership at full quota, and a new club house for the meetings and social events, the stock of Peninsula Post 41 is being listed at well above par.

ILLNESS KEEPS DALTON FROM PRESIDIO BOUT

The bout between Jack Dalton, of Carmel, and Jack Leeper, of the Presidio, had to be postponed Wednesday night on account of Dalton's illness. An examining officer at the army post several days before the fight told Dalton's father that it would be unwise for the lad to enter the ring with a heavy cold upon him, and local fans must wait until the next bouts to see the Carmel 145 pound slugger in action.

POSTOFFICE RECEIVES
BIDS ON STAR ROUTE

Lively bidding is under way for the Carmel Star Route delivery of mails, according to Postmaster Overstreet. This is for the delivery beginning next June, and already six persons have submitted filled-in blanks to the postoffice.

These bidders are George Branch, F. A. Wermuth, Sherman Comings, Jack Black, Peter Bartovich and Fremont Ballou. More bids are expected.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

The Carmel Pistol Club is soon to open its new range in the basement of the Murphy Building at Mission and Ocean Avenue. It will be a standard distance of 20 yards with room for six targets. It is planned to postpone the starting of ceremonies until after the next regular meeting of the Club, which is the first Tuesday of December, when the matter of joining the national association will be taken up.

DOROTHY DOBRZESKY TO BE MARRIED HERE TOMORROW

The wedding of Dorothy Perry Dobrzesky and Robert Lawrence will take place tomorrow noon in the Community Church, with the Rev. Melvin Dorsett officiating. Miss Dobrzesky has lived in Carmel seven years and is well known in art circles, while Mr. Lawrence is a business man from Canada. Following the wedding will be a buffet luncheon and reception, and the couple will leave for New York, thence to sail to England the middle of December. They will return to make their home in Canada, but expect to spend their summers in Carmel.

TERESINA SPANISH DANCER
MUSIC SOCIETY ATTRACTION

Teresina, the young and already celebrated Spanish dancer, who was premiere danseuse of the Paris Opera House, appears as the second on the Carmel Music Society winter Series on Saturday evening, December 9, in the Sunset School Auditorium.

Many dancers have come from Spain, but Teresina does not resemble any of them. She is not only a classic dancer and a Spanish dancer, but essentially a modern dancer. That is why the King of Spain chose this young Catalan artist to represent her country at the Goya Centennial.

Zuloaga has made Teresina the subject of two famous portraits, not only because she was young and beautiful but because she restores the purity of the peasant dance, and thus stands for the Dance in Spain. It is said of her that there is music in her heels and the human voice in the clicking of her castanets.

Teresina dances the dances of Galice, Aragon, Castile, Granada—the Spain of romance and mysterious balconies, the Spain that never ceases to have love and beauty with an unequalled grace.

Public seat sale for the Teresina concert opens on Wednesday, November 29, in the Denny-Watrous Gallery. Mail orders are filed in the order of their coming.

ADMIRABLE COMPANY IN SHAKESPEARE COMEDY

Shakespeare's scintillating comedy "Much Ado About Nothing" now playing at the beautiful new Kamokila Theatre, in San Francisco, will be presented by Ronald Telfer's Shakespearean Players at the Carmel Community Playhouse on Friday and Saturday evening and Saturday matinee, December 1st, and 2nd.

Mr. Telfer's admirable group of players is well versed in Shakespearean plays, Mr. Telfer, himself, having given notable performances in the classics, in London and the East. He will play Benedick and Emma Knox the Beatrice.

Irene Mansfeldt, last seen in "Dangerous Corner," and Dennis O'Shea will take the parts of Hero and Claudio respectively.

Telfer's company is now playing San Francisco and is billed for an extensive northern California tour after appearing here.

Mr. W. F. Green of Los Altos spent a couple of days in Carmel this week visiting his daughter Mrs. Dorothy Chapman.

OF OLD-TIME NEW YORK

"The Bowery," new attraction Sunday at the Carmel Theatre, welds together scores of actual incidents from life on the New York Bowery during the '80's and '90's.

George Raft as Steve Brodie jumps again from Brooklyn Bridge; the "saloon of Chuck Connors, played by Wallace Beery, is raided by Carrie Nation; John L. Sullivan fights one of his bare-fisted battles again; fire breaks out in Chinatown—and war with Spain is declared. Even Swipes, the newsie, is there, played by Jackie Cooper.

"The Bowery" is the first picture from the new 20th Century Pictures Studio in Hollywood. Raoul Walsh directed and United Artists released. Fay Wray and Pert Kelton supply the heart interest.

WESTON'S PHOTOGRAPHS IN SAN FRANCISCO EXHIBIT

Edward Weston's exhibit of his latest camera work is now on at the Ansel Adams' galleries in Geary Street, San Francisco. A number of New Mexican landscapes are included in the showing, and portrait studies of Robinson Jeffers, Jean Charlot and other notables. Howard Talbot of the Wasp-Newsletter says: "There is the customary Westonian frankness of method which in some exhibitions I will not say in the present one—reaches the proportions of a seemingly sadistic pleasure in the glorification of female frumpishness—a delight which in a less unconventional artist might be evoked by feminine charm. Some of his portraits of women are interesting as studies of unconventional personalities, aside from their revelation of the capabilities of the artist and his medium. There are child portraits, imaginative ones, in this collection, and apparently casual shots of grown-ups that are flashing character sketches. Modern patterns are formed, perhaps of railroad tank and semaphores, are shown with the landscapes and portraits. The New Mexican landscapes are interesting but not particularly exciting. We have seen so many Mexican scenes of late interpreted by the camera."

WM. P. SILVA TO EXHIBIT PAINTINGS HERE TOMORROW

William P. Silva, Carmel artist, announces that he will exhibit at his studio on San Antonio Street the thirty four canvases recently shown in Stanford University, visitors being welcomed tomorrow from two to five, and likewise on the following Saturday.

The exhibit is divided between Mr. Silva's earlier home region of South Carolina, with the moode days in town, coming down from and buildings and trees and weath- San Francisco. ers of the south, and the ocean locale of today on the Monterey Peninsula.

IS THAT SO?

By Winsor Josselyn

Two Carmelities were in Los Angeles traffic and to dodge a collision they cut an intersection button and got the tweet-tweet of the police whistle. It so happened that the other machine went its way, so the Carmelities got the full attention of the officer.

He was nice about it, but it looked dark. "Let's see your driver's license!" It was handed over. "Hmm . . . Carmel, eh? Well," and the cop grinned, "one of our citizens went up to your town and caused you a lot of grief, so I guess you've been punished enough by us. On your way!"

A canvass of all the monocle wearers who've come to Carmel in the past ten years brought to light one interesting fact. Everybody asks 'em questions about how and why and so on, but the one question that everybody pops at them sooner or later is, "How do you sleep with that thing in your eye—or do you?"

Another palm to Carmel, the City Different.

A writer was drafted to write advance publicity for a community play recently and did a bang-up job of it. So well he did that it was like wine to him, and when somebody asked who was to review the show for the papers he said that he'd do that, too. And, as though that wasn't enough, he was asked to write the review before the play hit the boards, which is press agent critic and mind reader rolled in one.

"Has he got a line?" said Bill Stanford. "Say, he's got such a good line you could hang clothes on it."

This has to stop. It's bad enough to have your picture on street corners advertising a play without having a trade magazine reprint it with cracks about "The Spider of Carmel ensnaring another innocent victim." Just because you're dressed in Shakespearian plush, and are giving the camera a bold look as your arms drawing a smiling damsel closer is no sign they need make matters worse.

So we say that Lloyd Weer was dealt an illegal blow by his buddies when they sold him out to the P. G. and E. magazine the other day by giving the picture for publication. And it's not true that Lloyd asked for the role; he had it thrust on him, and he just did his best.

Name for a rowdy-dow prize fighter: The Tough Cabbage.

Pon Chung, the housecleaning volunteer fireman from China, was seen coming out of an office after an evening's labor with mop and broom, and was accosted by a watchful citizen.

"Aha, Pon! I saw you bust out of there!"

"Yeah," said Pon, "me all the time busted."

"I wonder what flower stores do if their flowers don't sell? They can't eat 'em, you know?"

"Yeh? What about cauliflowers."

Tuxedos are becoming lamentably scarce at first nights down at the Community Playhouse. Questioning one lad in golf knickers as to why he wasn't in the waiter's outfit, he sighed and said, "I guess I'm just one who doesn't like rented suits."

One of the local grocers is overworked trying to supply toy trucks that have real headlights and rubber tires, as premiums for a line of canned goods. The big trouble is with the light battery, he reports. The grown folks wear 'em out before the children can even get 'em home.

Hostess: How do you want your coffee?
Addict: I want it now!

CARMEL FIREMEN NOW USE NEW YORK LADDER METHOD

The Carmel firemen have gone New York in a high way by adopting the metropolitan method of raising a ladder. After experimenting with several systems, our vigilant volunteers chose the big city way and this should cheer up the laddies in the east.

The public forgets that our firemen do more than just jump on the red trucks when the siren blows. They give talks to the Scouts, and

GOOD NEWS

Ever hear about the Scotchman who laid a new Cedar shingle roof over his old one using iron nails? It's a good story, but too long to tell, because his roof will last for 75 years or more, and the joke won't be on him, it will be on his grandchildren. They are the ones that will have to buy the next roof for that house.

SIX-YEAR-OLD SHOWS NEW PIANO METHOD

Keeping step with the spirit of progress which has always marked Carmel as an outstanding musical center, Miss Buena Mapson gave a demonstration of the Bevt system of "Piano Playing by Harmony Diagrams," at the Unity Hall, Carmel, on Friday evening of last week.

Following a brief explanation of this successful method of teaching piano playing, Richard Rohr, age 6, illustrated the type of work a child his age could do, after studying by this method for just ten half hour lessons, by playing "Breezes of the Night" by Fearis. His poise, as he played the piece without a mistake from memory, won a spontaneous burst of applause from the forty or more who were present.

Babette De Moe, age 11, who has also taken just ten lessons, demonstrated one of the most important features of this system by playing "America" by Henry Carey, dictated by Miss Mapson, without previously having seen or practiced the piece, thus showing that the knowledge of how to form a few simple chords will enable a student to play a variety of compositions.

Interesting stories, further high lights of importance, and an illustration by the teacher herself at the piano, concluded the demonstration, which all who attended seemed to thoroughly enjoy.

EASTERN VISITOR STAYS TO OPEN A CARMEL SHOP

After visiting in Carmel many times, Mrs. Carol Edwards, of Portland, has brought out the contents of her eastern shop and opened an establishment here that will be known as "The Little Shop in the Little House," on Lincoln Street between Fifth and Sixth. Mrs. Edwards is the wife of George Thornton Edwards, noted composer who wrote the State Song of Maine.

THANKSGIVING AT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Thanksgiving" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Thanksgiving day, November 30, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "All things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many rebound to the glory of God" (II Cor. 4:15).

Other Bible citations will include: "And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ; for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night. Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them (Rev. 12:10, 12 to first period).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "A louder song, sweeter than has ever before reached high heaven, now rises clearer and nearer to the great heart of Christ; for the accuser is not there, and Love sends forth her primal and everlasting strain." (p. 568).

KEEP POLITICS OUT

The announcement made last Friday by Russell Scott, chairman of the county NRA board, that there would be no change in the personnel of the Monterey Peninsula compliance committee, puts an end for a time, at least, to the fear that politics was being done with the NRA in this area. The nominations made by alleged Peninsula leaders the first of last week to a new and enlarged compliance committee were tinged with the suspicion of politics, not of the partisan variety, but of industrial significance.

In this district, the important NRA adjustments will come in the sardine fishing and canning industry. There will probably be frequent cases to investigate and adjudicate. A change of membership of the compliance committee would be of important advantage to some, and there was no delay in attempting to make such a change when opportunity offered. However, the effort failed, and Frederick R. Bechdolt of Carmel, Gail Chandler of Monterey, and Ed Simpson of Pacific Grove will continue in office.

The necessity of keeping these important committees out of politics and free of hampering influences is apparent. We congratulate Russell Scott upon his clear-sightedness and fair attitude in this decision.

FEDERAL ROAD FUNDS

The fifth Supervisorial District, of which Carmel is an important unit, will get $5,000 of the $40,000 federal public works money awarded this county for work upon unimproved streets and roads. The city of Monterey gets another $5,000, for its own use, so is clear of the district allotment. Carmel is entitled to its fair share of the district funds.

There are two of Carmel's streets that deserve special consideration. Scenic Drive, along the shoreline, must be given attention or it may become impassable. A winter of heavy storms would seriously menace parts of this roadway. More than any other street except Ocean Avenue, it is everybody's highway, one of the city's greatest attractions.

Santa Lucia Street is another general driveway, used by us all. That it is at the

SENTRY

We could not shut him out for long,
 For bootless our time-daring bars;
 He harnesses, as light and song
 To find the way, the lantern stars.

Quietly, unperceived, he rides
 Under our lintel, up the stairs;
 Swinging his thurible, he glides
 Fleetly among us, unaware.

He swings his ether, and its fumes,
 Incense to Morpheus, curl up
 Over us through the dark-filled rooms,
 From the moon's tilted silver cup.

We ward him off, but when he wins
 Entrance, we beg that he will keep
 Calm watch; his sentry work begins
 As we move slowly into sleep.

We lie transfigured while he lingers.
 All pain, all passion blotted out,
 And then the sunup with a shout
 Drops golden hours from his fingers.

—Benjamin Musser
 In "Poetic Viewpoint."

THANK GOD FOR GRAPES (Rondeau)

Thank God for grapes and purple-laden vines;
 For here, if ever heaven gave a sign
 Of sweet concern, benevolence for man,
 It softened Eden's devastating ban
 With this great gift of beauty, fruit and wine.

When Adam fled that Paradise divine,
 From apple-tree forbidden and malign,
 Oh did he not, when sweating toil began,
 Thank God for grapes?

This earth has heaven enough in its design
 If I may watch the autumn sunlight shine
 Where bunches ripen on my arbor span.
 The Greeks, when from the grapes the crushed juice ran,

Praised Zeus: and I, here in this bower of mine,
 Thank God for grapes!

—Robin Lampson.

edge of the city limits line has made it difficult to improve with the city funds, and impossible to build through assessment of abutting properties. But as it is all in the Fifth Supervisorial district, the present allocation of road money may properly be used in its betterment.

There will be plenty of other suggestions for much needed roadwork in Carmel, and whatever we get from the federal fund will not go far toward betterments. But it will help keep men who need work badly on the payroll for a time.

THIS THANKSGIVING DAY

"May we be grateful for the passing of dark days," says President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving Day proclamation. Carmel may and does. Its blackest days are over.

There will be work this winter for every man who is able to work, with full time, probably, and fair pay. There is the river bridge to build, and the highway across it from the river to Ocean Avenue. There will be road work down the coast, beyond the Big Sur. Carmel's allotment of federal funds will provide for other laborers. And the Red Cross has raised its needed funds to take care of those who are unable to work and earn.

Business generally is reviving. Our merchants are adjusted to the conditions of the depression, and are better able to make a profit than at any time during the past three years. Tax collections in city and county show that our home owners are in easier situation. And there is a more hopeful tone to the real estate market. Again the songs of the saw and the hammer are heard as houses start building.

"The passing of dark days," for which we are grateful, finds Carmel, just as before their coming, one of the beautiful residence places of America, in the hearts of many people the ideal spot to live. It has the strong pull of charm and unique character. Its widespread fame is still potent to bring here the class of residents that upbuild a community. And more and more, they will come.

Thanksgiving Day should have a distinct meaning to Carmel's people this year. "May we be grateful for the passing of dark days."

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Carmel is of interest to the world at present because of a drink-mixing contest which is supposed to have its base here, and through the discovery of a famous adventuress in Paris, and because another notorious imposter has been paroled from states' prison. Strange that this quiet little village, with scarcely a ripple of excitement in its passage of months, should loom conspicuously in the press as the gay haunt of wickedness.

Yet there is a fair basis for each of the improbabilities that are making this town her home rather than an occasional resting place, featuring Carmel in the country's newspapers. Mayor John Catlin is capital, where such charming women as Genevieve Paddleford, as Paris. the movies inform us, are really appreciated.

"It was seven years ago that regal Genevieve went shopping in Carmel. She was not unknown there, for Perry Newberry, Carmel newspaper editor, made the rounds of the village shop proprietors in advance of her arrival. 'Lock your doors,' Perry warned them. 'Put wax in your ears. This baby's got everything—everything, that is, but cash. She'll take you for a sleigh ride.' Forgetting his editorial training by committing a double negative, Newberry concluded with 'Don't give her nothing.'

"Carmel merchants vowed to heed Perry's advice. They signed 'No Paddleford' agreements among themselves, took oaths at midnight not to give her nothing. Then Genevieve the Gorgeous arrived.

"She smiled upon the village merchants. Their knees melted. They grinned back sheepishly. They tumbled over each other to be of service. Was there anything they could do for Mrs. Paddleford? (She was Grace Potter then).

"Yes there was. She wanted clothes. Not a whole lot, but they had to be nice. Just a few thousands dollars' worth. Yes, she had a bank account in San Francisco with $5000 dollars in it.

"She got her clothes. The merchants were left with the Paddleford checks and memories of the melting Paddleford smile. They still have their memories.

"When the merchants learned they had been nobbled their piteous shrieks whistled through the Carmel pines like the wails of lost souls. Newberry's sardonic laughter was also heard now and then.

"A lady merchant—it would be a lady—was the one who took action against Paddleford. The law eventually caught up with Genevieve."

Robinson Jeffers' "Give Your Heart to the Hawks" is creating all the stir that could be expected from a new book by the greatest of American poets. One of the finest reviews of it is by Henry Seidel Canby in the Saturday Review of Literature, New York. He sees in it a new phase of character in the poet. He says it "Differs from the relentless poems of his past in that stoicism wins through at the end, when the genial optimism of our progressive period and the laissez-faire of conventional act and orthodox religion have all been defeated. That poem begins on what might be called the 1929 levels of familiar experience."

Canby says: "Robinson Jeffers lives on that Pacific Coast which for good and for ill has so powerfully stirred the American imagination; he draws his themes from a territory of the imagination (a region strong and often morbid sensation) which lies nearer to California than to any other mundane state; indeed he is one of those poets, and they are not the least important, whose work is an emanation from an environment definitely geographical as well as spiritual, and an interpretation of Nature in a way which Wordsworth and Emerson would have understood. His poetry, which is certainly major at its best, stands apart from cults and schools. It is untroubled by the intellectualisms of the metaphysical school as the mist-wreathed, sun-baked slopes of the California foothills. The passion for perfection of the imagist, and also his reticence before the common passions of humanity, are unknown to it; like California, it is made up of masses where fineness of detail is lost in the sensationalism of violent contrast. But it escapes even less than the metaphysics of T. S. Elliot from the current implications of this troubled period. Indeed, like so many of the best novels of our time, its uncritical inclusiveness makes it a better register of the Zeitgeist than work more withdrawn into the inner rooms of the scholar's or the esthete's mind."

WALEVITCH IN RUSSIAN FOLK AND GYPSY SONGS

Not long ago Mr. Charles Dennis, Dean of Music of the College of the Pacific, wrote Dene Denny of the Denny-Watrous Gallery, "... I wonder if Saveli Walevitch and his charming wife have gotten in touch with you. He gave a recital of Russian folk songs here which was magnificent in my estimation

It would seem as though Mr. Dennis did not exaggerate, for Mr. and Mrs. Walevitch were entertained in Carmel recently at a local studio and Mr. Walevitch was prevailed upon to sing a few of the Russian songs. The enthusiasm and interest was so great that a recital has been arranged in the Denny-Watrous Gallery for Friday evening, December 1, that Carmel may have a chance to hear this great exponent of the Russian folk songs.

NEW DRAMA ORGANIZATION OF CENTRAL CALIFORNIA

Formation of the Peninsula Drama Association was effected by about forty representatives of little theatre groups around San Francisco bay, who held an organization meeting at the Palo Alto Community Theatre Sunday evening, November 19. Delegates were in attendance from the Peninsula Players of Burlingame, the Frederick Green Players of San Mateo, the El Camino Players of Redwood City, the Palo Alto Community Players, and the San Jose Players Guild.

Ralph Emerson Welles, supervising director of the Palo Alto Community Players, who has been very active in the furtherance of plans for such a federation of amateur dramatic groups on the Peninsula, was elected chairman pro tem to preside over the meeting. Beatrice A. Jones, secretary of the Palo Alto Community Center and Players group, was appointed secretary of the newly formed association. An organization committee, to be composed of two members from each group represented, was appointed to draw up a Constitution and By-Laws.

The purpose of this organization is to encourage dramatic aspirants in the development of their abilities, and to stimulate interest in the Little Theatre movement in general. Specifically, it will endeavor to disseminate useful information among its component groups, assist in matters calling for arbitration, cooperate on costume and property problems, enliven interest in play-writing by holding contests, establish play libraries, and circulate original plays among the various groups.

Any other amateur dramatic groups who wish to join the federation are invited to communicate with the Peninsula Drama Association at the Palo Alto Community Theatre, chosen as the temporary headquarters.

CHILDREN'S CONCERT AND CHRISTMAS BALLET

Michel Penha, members of the Orchestra and the Ruth Austin dancers are having lots of fun getting ready for the Children's Concert and Ballet which the Carmel Music Society is presenting in the Sunset School Auditorium on Friday evening, December 15. Mrs. Eugene Marble is carrying bits of brilliant red and green material in and out of the Gallery, Madeline Curry is playing the oboe over time to get ready for her solo in the Hansel and Gretel music used for the ballet, and feet are busy trying to keep still as the music of the "Shepherd's Hey" gets jazzier and jazzier in rehearsal. "Do you play jazz, Miss Walker?" asked Mr. Penha the other night to the Orchestra's official pianist, "Then here's your chance. Come on with the seconds!" And the Orchestra came on.

Mrs. Edith Smythe was called to Ferndale, Humboldt county, last week by the sickness of her grandmother. She will be away till after Thanksgiving.

Colonel and Mrs. Daniel W. Hand, who have been occupying the Webb house, left last Friday for San Francisco. They will sail the 23rd of the month for Manila.

GREENE-PENHA WEDDING IS SOCIETY EVENT

Alice (Lala) Greene Bates and Michel Penha were married in Carson City, Saturday, November 18. This announcement was received with surprise and delight by the many friends of the vivid and picturesque pair.

This marriage links old and new Carmel in a way that everyone recognizes. When Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Greene—he a distinguished architect of Pasadena—came to Carmel and established a hospitable home, full of children, dogs, books, beautiful things, good talk and unfailing kindness, Lala, their second daughter, was a slim dark child, beautiful and vital, who climbed tall pinetrees and walked on the beach at dusk. Those were the days of Arthur Vachell, the English painter, who loved and was their fondant and adviser, understood the children of Carmel, influencing them deeply by his own simple directness and truth. We went on foot then to dine at the Greenes', swinging a candle-lantern to light the long dark stretches.

Now the new Carmel has motors, music—and Michel Penha. Mr. Penha, a Hollander by birth, is a cellist of international reputation, who came first to Carmel with the Neah-Kah-Nie String Quartet and is now of the Farlow-Penha Piano Quartet. As director of the Monterey Peninsula Orchestra, he has won a secure place in the affections of the town. Now, since his marriage, we claim him and welcome him as one of us. To him and to his bride we wish all possible joy and the truest success.

Mr. and Mrs. Penha have taken a house in Carmel and will think of it as home, going every week to San Francisco for his engagements and rehearsals there.

—Susan Porter.

CONSERVATION CAMPS NEED
BOOKS, MAGAZINES and CARDS

Peninsula residents who wish to give old magazines, books, playing cards or games to young men of the Big Sur Civilian Conservation Corps camp may leave such articles at the Monterey chamber of commerce.

There are 220 young men in the camp, all engaged in re-forestation and trail and road building work. Gifts which may be used to help while away recreation hours will be appreciated.

Mrs. Effie McFarland returned to Carmel this week after a six months' absence spent in South Carolina.

RED CROSS DRIVE NEARS
BUDGETED REQUIREMENTS

With $2,765 already subscribed to its fund, Carmel Chapter American Red Cross has every promise of closing its drive with its budget complete before Thanksgiving Day. Three thousand dollars is the amount necessary to carry through the program of relief, and the sum is certain now of realization.

While Carmel has been liberal with contributions to the Community Chest, its response to the Red Cross has been more spontaneous, and indicates that it believes The Community Chest drive has the local problem should be kept in resulted in raising barely fifty per cent of its budgeted requirements.
